Town Plan, Old Economy (PENN-1176)

Structure

Masonry and wood construction. Built 1825, Frederick Rapp, Architect. The town of Old Economy was founded in 1824 by the Harmony Society, a religious society led by George Rapp. The frame buildings around the perimeter of the town were built first and occupied during the construction of the more permanent masonry structures in the center of the town. A notable feature is the Great House Complex. 5 sheets (1967, including site plans of 1824 and
